

GRAMMAR NOTES PRIMARY SEVEN TERM TWO

Week one

LESSON I

THE PRESENT PERFECT TENSE

The present perfect tense is a past tense in one way but it keeps strong links with the present e.g.

1. I have bought a new watch.
2. He has finished his assignment. However, the present perfect is a past tense because it is used to describe an action that was completed in the past. At the same time it is a present because there is a strong link between the past action and the present time.

It is also used to describe the past events when definite time is stated. e.g.

1. He has finished his homework.
2. Joseph and Musa have gone swimming.
3. Tom has lost his key.

The present perfect tense is made up of subject + has/have + past participle.

I / we / they/ you have	Finished
He / she/ it has	Lost
	done
	been, etc.

You can use the present perfect with just, already and yet.

Just = a short time ago.

- Would you like something to eat? No, thanks. I have just had lunch.
- We use already to say that something happened sooner than expected.
- Don't forget to post the letter, will you? I have already posted it.
- Yet, until, now shows that the speaker is expecting something to happen. Use yet only in questions and negative sentences, e.g.
 1. Has it stopped raining yet?

PRONOUNS

A pronoun is a word used in place of a noun. It must be of the same number, gender and person as the noun e.g.

- (a) Mohan is a good boy. He does not hate anybody.
- (b) Sheila is a naughty girl. She plays tricks with her friends.
- (c) Women are responsible people. They are responsible people.

NB: Pronouns are used to avoid boring repetitions.

KINDS OF PRONOUNS

Pronouns are of the following kinds:

1. Personal pronouns
2. Reflexive pronouns
3. Emphatic pronouns
4. Indefinite pronouns
5. Demonstrative pronouns
6. Distributive pronouns
7. Interrogative pronouns
8. Relative pronouns
9. Possessive pronouns
10. Object pronouns

The common kinds of pronouns are briefly described below:

1. Personal pronouns

These are pronouns that can be used in place of a person. They are used to replace a subject of a sentence.

Examples:

Singular	plural
I	we
You	you
He
She	they
It

Sentence construction

- (a) I saw the chief yesterday
- (b) He knows the answer
- (c) They live here.

2. Object pronouns

These pronouns come after the subject. They show one who suffers the action.

They include:

		Subject	Object
Singular	1 st person	I	we
	2 nd person	you	you
	3 rd person	he/she/it	him/her/it
Plural	1 st person	we	us
	2 nd person	you	you
	3 rd person	they	them

Activity

Put the correct pronoun in the space provided.

1. I dropped the vase and _____ broke.
2. We're waiting for Aunt Mary. _____ was supposed to arrive at 4 o'clock.
3. Njoki and Michael are my best friends. _____ are in the same class as me.
4. My father and I went to a football match last week. _____ enjoyed _____ very much.

9. When the boss comes, tell _____ I've just gone out for a minute.
10. A stray dog came into the compound. We chased _____ away.

LESSON III

REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

They are, in fact, compound personal pronouns since they are formed by the addition of the suffix "self or "selves" to the simple pronouns e.g.

My + self	=	myself
Your + self	=	yourself
Him + self	=	himself
Her + self	=	herself
It + self	=	itself

Plurals

- | | | | |
|-----|-------------|---|------------|
| (a) | Our + self | = | ourselves |
| (b) | Your + self | = | yourselves |
| (c) | Them + self | = | themselves |

A reflexive pronoun is so called when the action of the subject reflects upon itself e.g.

- (a) I cut my self
- (b) You cut yourself
- (c) He cut himself
- (d) She cut herself
- (e) The child cut itself
- (f) They cut themselves
- (g) We cut ourselves

Thus the reflexive pronoun is the object to the verb of which the preceding pronoun in the nominative case is the subject.

Emphatic pronouns:

When the compound personal pronouns (i.e.) pronouns with the adjunct "self" or 'selves' are used to lay emphasis on a particular point, they are called emphatic pronouns' e.g.

I completed the work myself

He himself told me about it

You yourself know better than anybody else.

They themselves left the place.

LESSON IV

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

The pronoun which relates (or refers) to a preceding noun is called a relative pronoun. The preceding noun is called its antecedent. A relative pronoun performs two functions.

On one hand, it is used instead of a noun. Therefore, it is a pronoun.

On the other hand, it connects two statements. Therefore, it also does the work of a conjunction.

The relative pronouns are; who, whom, whose, that, which

Uses:-

Who is used to talk about people? (Subject)

e.g. (i) Mary who lives in London is my friend.

(ii) The boy who stands first will get a prize.

Whom: for persons (object)

Who can be used instead of whom when it is the object of the verb in a relative clause

Usage:

Mukasa, who I gave my bicycle, has not come to day.

Our history teacher, whom I saw on my way here, said he would see us today.

Whom can be used with a preposition such as: by whom, about whom, for whom, to whom with whom.

Practice

1. The man from whom I got a present is my uncle.
2. This is the teacher from whom I borrowed a book.
3. The nurse about whom they were talking is my aunt.

WHICH

Used with things or animals.

e.g.(i) The book which he borrowed from you is mine.

(ii) I used a towel which I found in the bathroom.

That: Can be used with both persons and objects.

e.g. 1. Mary is my friend that lives in London.

2. The house that my father built has been sold.

Whose:

It is used for persons. It is used instead of his/her /their.

It is used to show possession.

e.g. We met a woman whose husband died last week.

That is the girl whose book was lost.

Is this the man whose car was borrowed

RELATIVE CLAUSES

We have two main relative clauses.

Defining clause

Non-defining clauses

Defining relative clause

A defining clause is a clause required to define or qualify the main clause when the subject of the main clause is not clear.

However, defining relative clauses have three main characteristics.

The subjects of the main clauses are not clear.

When joining the two clauses, no commas are used.

Examples:

The children are sick. The children were playing in the mud.

The children who were playing in the mud are sick.

The jokes which Banda made caused a lot of chaos.

The clauses are short.

Activity

In the following sentences use the correct form of the interrogative pronouns.

7. _____ is preferable, honour or riches?
8. _____ of them desires to see me?
9. _____ do you think he is?
10. With _____ were you exchanging pleasantries?

Non-defining clause

These are relative clauses which don't define the subject but simply give more information about it. They have three characteristics.

1. The subjects of the main clauses are clear.
 2. The clauses are long.
 3. When the two clauses are joined, they take commas e.g.
1. George Wegulo, whom I like very much, lives next door.

LESSON IV

ORDER OF TWO ADVERBS

When we wish to use an adverb of place and an adverb of time in the same sentence or clause, the usual order is adverb of place + adverb of time.

e.g.

- He left for Europe last Thursday.
- She went to the theatre last Saturday.

If we wish to emphasise the adverb of time we may place it before the adverb of place.

He left last Thursday for Europe.

She went on Saturday to the theatre.

As mentioned above, the adverb of time can come at the beginning of the sentence or clause.

On Saturday she went to the theatre.

An adverb giving the number of times or frequency normally comes before an adverb of time.
